

Policy for Member Comment at Board Meetings

Meetings are open to all members of the congregation.

After approval of minutes there will be a period of Member Comment. Temple members who want to address the Board with comments or concerns may do so. Individuals will have at most five minutes to speak. The Member Comment period of the meeting will last no more than fifteen minutes. The Board will not respond during the Member Comment period but may address concerns as new business in future meetings.

In order to accommodate time in the agenda for member comment the Board requests that speakers indicate their intention to attend and the topic they intend to address to the President of the Board five days in advance of the meeting.

The Board reserves the right to go into closed session at the discretion of the President.
